Important Information about Claiming a Superannuation Death Benefit

When a member of Slate Super dies, the Trustee must determine who is entitled to receive a death benefit. This decision is governed by the Superannuation Industry (Supervision) Act 1993, our Trust Deed and general trust law.

Who can claim a benefit?

A benefit may be paid to dependants of the member (as defined below) or a legal personal representative. As Trustee, we may pay the benefit to one or more persons, and to the exclusion of others, in such a manner and proportion as we determine. If we cannot find any dependants or a legal personal representative, then we may pay the benefit to a non-dependant (such as a next of kin).

Who can be a dependant?

A dependant can be:

- A spouse of the member (including another person (whether of the same sex or different sex) with whom the member was in a relationship that is registered under a law of State or Territory; and a person who, although not legally married to the member, lived with the member on a genuine domestic basis in a relationship as a couple);
- A child in relation to the member (including an adopted child, a step-child and an ex-nuptial child (born outside the marriage) of the member; and a child of the member's spouse);
- Any person with whom the member had an "interdependency relationship" at the time of the member's death;
- Any person who, in the opinion of the Trustee, was at the date of the member's death wholly or partially dependant on that member; or
- Any person who, in the opinion of the Trustee, had at the date of the member's death, a legally enforceable right to look to the member for financial support.

What is an interdependency relationship?

Two people have an interdependency relationship if:

- They have a close personal relationship;
- They live together;
- One or each of them provides the other with financial support; and
- One or each of them provides the other with domestic support and personal care.

If each of these conditions is met, there is an interdependency relationship and each person is a dependant of the other. In addition, if a close personal relationship exists but the other requirements above are not satisfied because of a physical, intellectual or psychiatric disability (e.g. one person lives in a psychiatric institution suffering from a psychiatric disability), then an interdependency relationship may still exist.

What is financial dependency?

Financial dependency may include a dependency on the member for payment of bills, rent, maintenance payments and shared financial commitments, such as a mortgage. Being financially dependent on the member does not necessarily mean that the dependant totally depended on the member for financial support.

Who is a legal personal representative?

A legal personal representative is the person granted authority by the relevant State or Territory court to finalise the member's estate through either:

- Probate to act as an executor—where the member left a valid Will; or
- Letters of administration—where the member did not leave a valid Will.

What if the dependant is a minor or an infirm person?

A parent or guardian may complete an Application for Payment of a Death Benefit form on behalf of a child under age 18. The legal personal representative or attorney of an infirm person may complete an Application for Payment of a Death Benefit form on behalf of that person.

If the Trustee decides to pay a benefit to a child under age 18 or any other person lacking legal capacity, the benefit may be paid either to the parent of the child, to the beneficiary's legal personal representative or to a third party trustee for the maintenance, advancement, education or benefit of that person.

How may death benefits be paid?

A death benefit may be paid to a dependant beneficiary as an income stream or a lump sum.

What are the rules for paying income streams to child beneficiaries?

In order to receive a death benefit in the form of an income stream a child must:

- Be less than 18 years of age; or
- Be less than 25 years of age and have been financially dependent on the deceased member; or
- Have a disability that:
 - » Is attributable to an intellectual, psychiatric, sensory or physical impairment or a combination of impairments;
 - » Is permanent or likely to be permanent; and
 - » Results in a substantially reduced capacity of the person for communication, learning or mobility and the need for ongoing support services.

Otherwise, the death benefit must be paid to the child as a lump sum.

If death benefits are paid to a child of any age in the form of an income stream, they must be cashed as a lump sum on the earlier of the day on which the:

- Income stream is commuted, and
- The day on which the child attains age 25, unless the child has a disability as described above.

What if the member made a non-binding nomination?

If the member made a valid non-binding nomination with the Trustee before their death, the Trustee will take this nomination into consideration in determining how the member's death benefit will be paid, but is not bound to follow it.

What if the member made a non-lapsing binding nomination?

If the member made a valid non-lapsing binding nomination with the Trustee before their death, and all nominated beneficiaries are alive at the time of the member's death, the Trustee will be bound by this nomination and will pay the member's death benefit in accordance with the nomination.

What tax is payable on death benefits?

Generally, for dependants of the deceased, no tax is payable on receipt of a lump sum death benefit. The taxation of income stream death benefits is complicated, and we recommend that you seek independent professional advice specific to your circumstances.

What steps are involved in the death claim process?

When Slate Super is advised about the death of a member, the Trustee must decide to whom a benefit should be paid. The steps are as follows:

1. An Application for Payment of a Death Benefit form is sent to the potential claimant/s.
2. Claimants will be requested to provide documentation relating to the deceased and minor children when lodging their claim. These include:
 - A certified copy of any signed and dated Will left by the member;
 - A certified copy of the full death certificate which includes the cause of death; and
 - Proof of identity for each person intending to make a claim or claiming on behalf of a minor child.
3. When the form and all documents have been received, we will consider to whom the benefit should be paid. This consideration will include a check to see whether the member made a valid non-lapsing binding nomination. If this is not applicable, we will:
 - Try to identify all the people who might have been dependants of the member; and
 - Examine each person's relationship with, and the extent to which they might have been financially dependent on, the member at the time of their death.
4. If there is no valid non-lapsing binding nomination, we will then determine how the benefit should be paid. This is based on considering:
 - Any Will left by the member and noting when it was written;
 - Any non-binding nomination made by the member;
 - The circumstances of each claimant or other potential beneficiary at the time the member died; and
 - All other relevant information obtained by us.
5. We will write to each person who has made a claim, informing them how it is proposed the benefit will be paid. If there is more than one person, the proposed distribution of the benefit will also be provided.
6. All claimants will be given 28 days to respond and inform us whether or not they agree with the proposal.
7. If no claimant objects to the proposal, the benefit will be paid or commence to be paid. In the case of a lump sum benefit, the benefit will consist of the proportion of the account balance less tax where applicable. If there is an objection to the proposal, we will review it; taking into account the objections and any additional information that is provided. We may also ask for further information to help in the review.
8. When we have considered the matter, we will make a further decision and repeat steps 5, 6 and 7 above. If a claimant remains dissatisfied with the final decision of the Trustee in relation to the distribution of a death benefit, the claimant may then make a complaint to the Australian Financial Complaints Authority (AFCA). Claimants will be informed of their rights in this regard at the same time as they are notified of the Trustee's determination.

Certified copies

Wherever we request certified copies you must ensure that the documents you provide have been certified by an approved person from the list below.

The person who is authorised to certify documents must sight the original and the copy and make sure both documents are identical, then make sure all pages of the copy have been certified as true copies by writing or stamping 'certified true copy' followed by:

- Their signature;
- Printed name; and
- Qualification (e.g. Justice of the Peace, Australia Post employee, etc.) and date.

The following people can certify copies of originals documents as true and correct copies:

- A Justice of the Peace
- A police officer, chiropractor, dentist, nurse, optometrist, pharmacist, physiotherapist, psychologist or veterinary surgeon.
- A person enrolled on the roll of a State or Territory Supreme Court or the High Court of Australia, as a legal practitioner
- An Australian consular officer or an Australian diplomatic officer
- A judge of a court or a magistrate
- A teacher employed on a fulltime basis at a school or tertiary institution
- A permanent employee of Australia Post with two or more years of continuous service
- A finance company officer with two or more years of continuous service (with one or more finance companies)
- An officer with, or authorised representative of, a holder of an Australian Financial Services Licence (AFSL), having two or more years' continuous service with one or more licensees.

IMPORTANT: Under superannuation legislation, the Trustee is required to communicate details of its proposed payment to all potential beneficiaries. This means that a person's name and details of their relationship to, or dependence on, the deceased member may be disclosed to other claimants. It may also be disclosed to the Trustee's legal advisors and, if required, to the Australian Financial Complaints Authority (AFCA) or a court.

If one person is coordinating the claims process on behalf of all claimants, sections 1-4 should only be completed once.
